

What information do you collect?

Gridinsoft Help Center

By default, Trojan Killer does not collect personal documents, browsing content, or anything you scan. You can opt in (Settings) to send anonymous statistics that help improve detections, these include non-identifying technical signals like detection names and app version, not your files. If you choose to send a manual report (Save to file ), it contains technical details we need to investigate: file paths, hashes, detection IDs, engine/version, and basic system info (OS build, language). Reports are used only for troubleshooting and research quality.
